What is Renew?

Renew is positioned as a dietary supplement that targets metabolic health by promoting deep, restorative sleep. The creators emphasize that optimal metabolic function, including fat-burning, immune health, and overall well-being, hinges significantly on quality sleep. In today's fast-paced world, where sleep is often compromised, Renew aims to fill the gap by facilitating better sleep patterns.

How Does Renew Work?

Renew's formula revolves around its "Metabolic Regeneration Matrix," comprising several key ingredients known for their potential benefits in promoting sleep and supporting metabolic processes. Let's delve into each ingredient:

- L-Arginine (1,200 mg): L-Arginine is an amino acid known for its role in nitric oxide production, which aids in blood flow regulation and mitochondrial function. It may also support insulin sensitivity and blood sugar regulation, potentially impacting sleep quality indirectly.
- L-Lysine (1,200 mg): Another essential amino acid, L-Lysine, is highlighted for its role in protein synthesis and stress reduction. It may contribute to anxiety reduction and wound healing, though its direct impact on sleep requires further research.
- L-Theanine (200 mg): Extracted from tea leaves, L-Theanine is noted for its calming effects on the brain by modulating neurotransmitter levels. It promotes relaxation and may aid in falling asleep faster, although human studies are needed to confirm its efficacy.
- Ashwagandha Root Extract (150 mg): A popular adaptogenic herb in Ayurvedic medicine, Ashwagandha is revered for its stress-relieving properties. It may help induce relaxation and support sleep quality, especially when taken at higher doses over time.
- 5-Hydroxytryptophan (5-HTP, 100 mg): Derived from the Griffonia simplicifolia plant, 5-HTP serves as a precursor to serotonin and melatonin, neurotransmitters crucial for mood and sleep regulation. It may aid in improving sleep latency and overall sleep quality, particularly in older adults.
- Melatonin (10 mg): Known as the body's natural sleep hormone, melatonin regulates the sleep-wake cycle. Supplementing with melatonin can help initiate and maintain sleep, especially in individuals with disrupted sleep patterns due to various factors like shift work or jet lag.
