Key Ingredients and Mechanism of Action

ArcticBlast's formula includes several key ingredients:

1. Menthol: Known for its cooling sensation, menthol helps distract from pain signals and may improve blood flow to the affected area, aiding in healing.
2. Camphor: Acts as a topical analgesic by numbing the area of application, reducing inflammation, and providing relief from sore muscles and joint pain.
3. Aloe Barbadosis: Contains anti-inflammatory properties that reduce swelling and discomfort, promoting healing and providing natural pain relief.
4. Arnica Montana Flower Extract: Reduces inflammation, promotes circulation, and aids in muscle recovery, making it beneficial for managing pain associated with injuries and arthritis.
5. Wintergreen Oil: Contains methyl salicylate, which acts as a natural pain reliever by reducing inflammation and providing a soothing effect on muscles and joints.
6. St. John's Wort Oil: Known for its anti-inflammatory properties, it helps alleviate nerve pain and promotes relaxation, contributing to pain relief.
7. Calendula Officinalis Extract: Offers anti-inflammatory benefits, reducing pain sensitivity and supporting skin health.

How ArcticBlast Works

The application of ArcticBlast involves massaging a few drops onto the affected area. According to the manufacturer, users typically experience a cooling and soothing effect within 60 seconds of application. The product claims to penetrate the skin rapidly, targeting inflammation, improving blood circulation, and supporting overall pain relief.

Usage Guidelines and Safety

ArcticBlast recommends a simple patch test before initial use and advises against application on open wounds or cuts to prevent irritation. Users are encouraged to wash hands before and after application and should avoid contact with eyes. The product is designed for external use only and is not recommended for individuals with certain skin conditions, pregnant or nursing women, or children.
